Here at the Compass School, we believe in raising the aspirations of every student to enable them to have the best future. Through integrating careers into the curriculum, having bespoke careers sessions and introducing people from the workplace, we hope to challenge stereotypes and inspire the next generation. Our careers packages are tailored to meet the needs of individual students using a variety of methods including: the use of role play and dressing up corners giving students the opportunity to experiment and practice social skills, the use of a careers library so students can learn about the different opportunities available to them in their adult life, students having the opportunity to experience different classroom helper roles enabling them to learn responsibility and to take ownership and playing different games where students learn essential social and transferable skills that they will need in their adult life. We hope that by starting our careers learning from a young age, our students will understand about the many options that are available to them and go on to have a bright future.
